DETAILED ACTION

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The limitation that “the structural unit (B2) under B) is selected from the group consisting of vinyl ethers, alkylacrylates, or alkyl methacrylates” is considered as new matter. It is considered as new matter because page 9 lines 14-21 of the specification provide support only for that portion of the copolymers stated under B) may optionally comprises up to 4% by weight of vinyl acetate. The copolymers stated under B) may optionally comprise up to 5% by weight of further comonomers wherein further comonomers include copolymers except vinyl acetate. Such further comonomers include vinyl esters, vinyl ethers, alkyl acrylates, alkyl methacrylates or higher olefins having at least 5 carbon atoms.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 1 (and its dependent claims) is indefinite and confusing for the phrase “consist essentially of a) and b) “of line 3 of part B) that is in conflict with the phrase of” the copolymers comprises up to 4% ... or up to 5% ... acetate" in line 2 from the end of the claim 1. The "comprises" phrase is an open-ended phrase and is broader than the more narrower phrase "consist essentially of" that appear in the beginning of the said claim. It is unclear to the examiner the intended scope of the claim.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-15 remain for reasons made of record in Paper No. 8 dated May 30, 2002 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mitsubishi Petrochemical Co. Ltd. EP 217,602 in view of Admitted Prior Art Reimann et al (Reimann) 5,254,652 and Brown et al (Brown) WO 95/23,200.

Applicant's arguments filed August 29, 2002 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The objection to the misspelling of and in claim 1 is deemed moot in view of applicants' correction.

The examiner agrees with applicants' arguments that Brown is silent with respect to the PP of its oils. The examiner's position is that Brown teaches the narrow range of special oil required under Arctic conditions that have the same or overlapping CP and CFPP and therefore it would be reasonably expected to the skilled artisan in the middle distillate fuel art that the oils of Brown would be reasonable expected to have the same or overlapping PP properties as that of the oils of the instant claims.

Applicants' arguments that Brown teaches away from the present invention in requiring the use of comb polymers is not convincing in that it is not clear from the pending claims as to the intended scope of the instant claims. The claims contain the open-ended phrase "comprising" that would not exclude the comb polymers of Brown. If applicants intend to exclude the comb polymers of Brown then the claims need to be amended to close the claims to the comb polymers of Brown.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
